

"A kaleidoscopic journey of the heart,
mind and body as 17th century England
meets 21st century America head on."

In 1620 three ships set sail from Plymouth, Devon, headed for the 'New World' we now call America: The Mayflower, The Speedwell and The Endeavour. The Speedwell was dismasted and put back into Plymouth. The Mayflower made it to Cape Cod, Massachusetts, but The Endeavour foundered in the Sargasso Sea and was stranded on an island in the South Atlantic. In the fight for survival The Endeavour's passengers and crew create a community that thrives with little change for nearly 400 years, before some of the islanders finally restore their battered ship and set sail again to fulfil destiny. When reporter Charles Audubon Davenport, lazing on his trimaran in Cape Cod, is suddenly surprised by a three-masted galleon bearing down on him little does he realise how his life and the future of modern America is about to change. The arrival of these lost Pilgrims is like a pebble thrown into a pond whose ripples reach even the farthest shore... including the American President.

Excuse me, sire. Be this the New World?

FREDERICK COVINS

*Excuse me, sire.
Be this the New World?*

FREDERICK COVINS

